INCIDENT

National Institute of Technology Karnataka, Surathkal, located on the shores of the Arabian Sea, was established over five decades ago with a vision - to impart technical education of the highest standard to the best students from all over the country. Since its inception, it has unceasingly striven for excellence; bearing testimony to this fact are the numerous technocrats, entrepreneurs and managers who are proud alumni of this institute. It is a matter of utmost pride for me to introduce to you Incident, the annual cultural extravaganza of NITK. For more than three decades, Incident has been a hallmark of organizational excellence and cultural exposé. A congregation of students from academic institutions across the nation, Incident truly celebrates what the youth of India stand for - the enthusiasm, the color, the vibrance and the mirth. I take this opportunity to invite students, alumni, institutions and sponsors to come forth and join us in celebrating this youthfulness. We look forward to meeting you as a part of our extended NITK family.

ABOUT

The National Institute of Technology Karnataka (NITK) was founded on the western shores of the Indian peninsula close to the city of Mangalore in the year 1960, and since then it has been galvanizing countless curious minds who have passed through its gates. It was in the year 1980 that these brilliant minds came up with and successfully staged NITK's first cultural festival - Incident. And over the years, it has grown in leaps and bounds to become what it is today - a spectacle which enthralls everyone who experiences it.

Incident is the second largest cultural festival of South India. It is now a permanent mark on the calendar, during the months of February - March and attracts over 25000 footfalls every year. This huge ingress is justified, as Incident or 'Inci' is replete with a mind-boggling array of things to do and see. It has featured amazing performances by artistes of calibre like KK, Kunal Ganjawala, Sunidhi Chauhan, Javed Ali and Salim-Sulaiman, as well as bands such as Indian Ocean, Motherjane, Swarathma and Led Zeppelica. International performing artistes like Roy Zaltsman and The Turbans have also performed at Incident in the World Fest, held for the first time in 2014.

There are events to participate in - Haute Couture, Promenade, Slam Dunk, Centre Stage, Bandish... to name a few. There are workshops for those who want to learn, quizzes for those who already know it all and Crossfade -the DJ night- for the party freaks. And of course, there is always the beach inviting you to relax or frolic with friends or even go para-sailing, if you are adventurous. Now that's something you don't find everywhere. Incident is a terrific carnival no one would want to miss, because when it comes to Incident, there is something in it for everybody.

And this time, it's going to be bigger and better than ever before.

WORKSHOPS

Incident workshops are a rare opportunity to learn something creative and out-of-the-box. Cartoon making, salsa, beatboxing, animation, chocolate making, origami, digital photography—we've had it all. These workshops have pulled some of the largest crowds in every edition of Incident so far.

As we have said time and again, there is something in Incident for everyone. Foodaholics have enjoyed making and tasting their own chocolate, as well as testing out samples made by others.

Dancing enthusiasts have flocked to the salsa workshop, which has catered to amateurs and experts alike. For those with a creative bend of mind, cartoon making and animation workshops are the places to be. The Origami workshop gave a unique insight in manipulating paper to make beautiful art. And of course, with the recent instagram and selfie trends raging through the youth, the digital photography workshop gave some good advice on how to take the perfect click.

Conducted by unmatched talent from all over the country, these workshops have been a perfect blend of learning and fun throughout the years. This year we promise to bring you an interesting line-up of workshops. You are not going to get this chance elsewhere!

We NITKians believe that all enjoyment should be tempered with a little responsibility. And along these lines, we present to you the social initiative of Incident. I-Core. Over the years, we have had events like I-Council - Counseling for high school children, I-Shore - Initiative to cultivate reading habits in children, and I-Theater - an opportunity for the differently-abled children to showcase their talents on stage.

However, I-Core at Incident'14 went really big with the launch of the Jagriti Project on International Womens' Day. Released in the presence of the Mangalore and Udupi City Police Commissioners and the Chairperson of the Women and Child Welfare Committee, Mangalore, the Jagriti Project aimed at reducing instances of child labour in the country through a web and smartphone based portal.

This Incident, I-Core plans to do its bit for the society by tackling the ever-present issue of pollution, poverty, literacy and hygiene. Come join us and feel a sense of satisfaction as we enjoy responsibly at NITK at Incident'15.

Students launch website to combat child abuse

Five students from National Institute of Technology of Karnataka (NITK), Surathkal, launched a website to combat child abuse on Saturday. The website projectjagriti.org is part of their effort called Jagriti Project.

Team leader Dhruv Chand, a third year mechanical engineering undergraduate at NITK, said, "When an individual notices a case of child labour or child abuse, he can log on to the website and provide details such as location, type of abuse, and photos. Photos submitted will not be uploaded on the website. Once the details are in, the Jagriti team will coordinate with agencies such as child helpline and child welfare committees to rescue the child. The driving philosophy behind our project is simple. If there is a framework through which one can make a difference easily, there is a good probability that one would indeed try."

Others on the team are Sahana VP (final year computer science), and Karthik Bhat, Srikanth Rao, Ananya Srinivas and Shivani Parikh (all second year computer science students).

MANGALORE: After the home stay attack incident in the city, youths have not got many opportunities to enjoy the performances of DJs in the coastal region. The good news for music buffs is famous DJ Angel will be seen scratching the turn table during "Incident'13," one of the largest cultural festival in South India of National Institute of Technology - Karnataka (NITK) in Surathkal.

She will perform at NITK campus on March 15 from 9pm to 11.30pm. Incident'13 kick started here on Wednesday.

Jitesh Agarwal, one of the organiser of the event and final year electrical and electronics engineering student told TOI that "We are planning to organise a DJ competition for students DJs at a beach belonging to NITK during this five-day cultural festival." He says DJ Angel will play electronic, house, hip-hop and other genres of western music.

There is more in the stores to enthrall the music buffs. This cultural extravaganza is always known for the performances of renowned music artists. Famous Indian bands - Swarathma, a folk-fusion music band and Eccentric Pendulum, a Bangalore-based progressive metal band will rock

It was a five-day extravaganza that left Kudla wholly enchanted. Incident at NITK, one of the most popular college fests in South Canara, was a smorgasbord of culture, music, art and dance. The annual event saw over 6,000 students participate in this mega celebration that had the best of names spanning various fields. Topping the list of favourites was the world fest which had artists from as far as Ukraine, UK and Romania whipping up a musical storm. The War of the DJs was also a huge hit and saw some hectic activity by the beach. Roy Zaltsman, the popular magician from UK, was part of the festivities, as was the Goan band Elektroverts, who left everybody asking for more. Bollywood was big at this fest too, and making their presence felt on stage were music composer duo Salim-Suleiman, whose various renditions, including Chak De, had the

Alumni Ashok Kheny inaugurates 5-day fiesta, goes down memory lane

Fun, frolic, creativity, music and culture unveiled at 'Incident 2012,' the national-level cultural extravaganza organised by National Institute of Technology Karnataka (NITK) at Surathkal on Wednesday.

The five-day fiesta kicked off with a formal inauguration by NICE Managing Director Ashok Kheny. Addressing the gathering, Kheny humorously remembered his student days in NITK.

"We had struggled to buy a projector as it cost Rs 33,000 in 1972. Our mess bill was Rs 40 a month. Time has changed and what NITK has become today is truly marvelous," he said.
